Athlete praised

800 attend memorial for slain student

Romulus high school students and community members remained stunned yesterday (Tuesday) as they filled Romulus High School auditorium to pay tribute to senior Robert O'Day, killed Jan. 31 in a tragic stabbing incident at the school.

Funeral services, originally scheduled at Baum-Crane Funeral Home on Goddard Road in Romulus were instead conducted in the high school auditorium.

School officials said the move was made to accommodate the nearly 800 people who attended the 11 a.m. services.

O'Day, 18, captain of the football team and co-captain of the wrestling team, was fatally stabbed Friday when attempting to rush to the aid of a fellow student, apparently involved in an altercation with another student.

That student, police later determined, did not attend Romulus High School.

"When you leave this house of love, leave your anger behind," Pastor Thomas Anderson told the sobbing crowd. Most were teen-age friends and classmates of the athlete.

Asking the crowd to "cling to the memory" of O'Day, Anderson said that the teen-ager "loved all humanity" and that he gave everyone the "inspiration to achieve, to share, to win."

"Bob O'Day, you've won, you've won," Anderson said near the close of his eulogy.

telling mourners that O'Day had taken a "better place" with his Creator.

A varsity jacket, belonging to O'Day and displaying the numerous medals signifying his excellence in sports, lay across the coffin as a poignant reminder of the once-star athlete's drive to succeed.

A message, apparently representing the entire school, read "We all love you Bob," was placed nearby.

Students and faculty alike remained subdued after the fourth tragedy to strike the school during the last two years. In 1984, a teacher committed suicide. One student was killed in a car accident in 1985 and another, shortly after, committed suicide.

"We're all just stunned," school superintendent William Bedell said. "It was just so senseless. I think the reaction of the school was like the look on people's faces when they were watching the Challenger explode—there is this look of stunned disbelief."

Bedell said that the school faculty was preparing to deal with the aftermath of O'Day's death after meeting with Members of the Romulus High School varsity club served as pallbearers Tuesday for Robert O'Day's funeral. A memorial service was conducted in his honor in the school auditorium because of the large crowd that turned out to pay last respects to the athlete killed by a stab wound to the heart last week. The obvious emotion surrounding the tragedy, as seen by O'Day's teammates in the above photo, was displayed repeatedly by students who filed into the school sobbing or simply staring into space, their eyes reddened with grief over the loss of their friend.

Forging partnerships

It was more like a high school graduation than an announcement by GM that its Canada-Pontiac Group will take over the Detroit Diesel Allison Plant in Romulus with all the pomp and celebration that accompanied the news.

The news, hailed by company officials as "forging new partnerships" with the city of Romulus and union employees, came just three weeks after Romulus city council members approved a 12-year tax abatement for GM, paying the way for a $250 million investment by the auto company.

GM plans to build a 4.3 liter, V-6 world-class engine to compete with the world market by 1988.

Governor James Blanchard, GM officials, Mayor Beverly McNally and more than 1,000 employees attended the meeting held Monday at the Detroit Diesel Allison Plant to announce the new venture.

16-year-old held in O'Day slaying

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

Police Monday said that the sole suspect in the stabbing death of Romulus High School senior Robert O'Day was being held at the Wayne County Youth Home pending a probate hearing Thursday.

The 16-year-old, whose name is being withheld because he is a juvenile, was apprehended by police at his home in Inkster following the death Jan. 31 of O'Day, 18.

Romulus police, who said that the youth was just 33 hours from his 17th birthday when the 2:20 p.m. stabbing occurred, have asked the Wayne County juvenile authorities to charge the teen as an adult.

He was arraigned Sat., Feb. 1 in the Wayne County juvenile court.

Charges will be not be filed until a determination by Wayne County probate authorities.

If tried as an adult, the youth could face a charge of first degree murder, which carries a sentence of mandatory life imprisonment, police said.

The youth was arrested after he allegedly stabbed O'Day outside the athletic locker room in the lower level at Romulus High School.

O'Day, police determined, was aiding a fellow wrestler, who was allegedly accosted by one of four youths.

The incident, which has given rise to the question of how the youths obtained entry into the school, began as a "senseless argument" between two high school students.

"The argument began the day before when one student apparently pushed another in the hallway," Det. Dan Snyder, in charge of the investigation, said. "That one that was pushed went home that night and told his cousin that he was having trouble at the school. They then got two other youths to go back to the school on Friday to settle the fight."

Snyder said the youths challenged the student, who was preparing for wrestling practice, to come out into the hallway.

The student was apparently attempting to comply when he was interceded by his coach, who ordered the intruders out of the building.

At that point, Snyder said, a fight ensued as the coach ordered his team back into the locker room.

O'Day attempted to intercede a blow to a fellow wrestler when the Inkster youth allegedly stabbed him with a five-inch folding knife, police said.

O'Day immediately clutched

Ford seeks Medal of Merit candidates

Congressman William D. Ford (D-Taylor) recently announced March 25, 1986, as his deadline for accepting nominations for his annual Medal of Merit for Outstanding Youth for the 15th Congressional District.

Originally conducted in 1976 as part of the Bicentennial celebration, the awards program was so well received that the citizen's committee, which consisted of volunteers from each of the 20 communities within the 15th District, recommended that it be continued as an annual event.

"I continue to believe that this is an excellent way to honor some of our truly outstanding young people whose activities and accomplishments too often have gone unnoticed and unrewarded," Ford said.

Three awards will be available in each of the 20 communities in the 15th District. The first is for youth aged 14 to 18 who are students in senior high school, the second is for high school graduates aged 18 to 22, and the third for youth groups with significant accomplishments.

3 charged for entering Romulus High School

The medals will be personally presented by Congressman Ford on Sunday, May 4, 1986.

Nomination forms are available from Congressman Ford's district offices in Wayne (722-1411), Taylor (287-4900), Ypsilanti (482-6636) and from individual committee members.

"The committee has decided to use the same ground rules for the judging criteria which ment will not be eligible."

Recognizing that not all people serve as leaders, Ford added that consideration would also be given to nominees who have contributed time and effort toward meaningful projects such as volunteer practices, heroic acts and humanitarian efforts.

Students celebrate Black History Month

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

"Next year, I want to make sure somebody who is white takes care of the activities," Linda Bradford said, vowing, jokingly, to begin preparing someone for the task soon.

Bradfield, a counselor at North Junior High School was referring to the agenda for the 1987 celebration of Black History Month. It's not that she is offended at the idea that a black person, such as she, was automatically assigned to the role of coordinator for activities during February but the idea, she said, is to get everyone involved.

"This isn't just for blacks," Bradfield insisted. "This is something that everyone should relate to the fact that we're honoring people who've made significant contributions to our country, to the nation."

Bradfield, who said she "grew up learning all about blacks" while a student in Okla-homa, feels that teachers need to incorporate black studies into their regular curriculums.

The fact that more and more school books are including blacks as significant contributors to history is reassuring but not enough to convince Bradfield that the progress is complete.

"We're still not too progressive as far as teaching Black History in our schools," she said. "I think our books are updated but still not that inclusive."

Perhaps that's why Bradfield zealously attacked the task of preparing a month's worth of activities for North Junior High students during this month.

In addition to a contest ending at the end of the month, she has planned several movies depicting black stars in various roles, ranging from drama to comedy and a keynote speaker, Wayne County Executive William Lucas, to talk to students about being a black politician.

Prizes for the contest range from $50 for first prize to a radio and gift certificate for students who can guess who, among other questions, "spoke of a vision in one of his speeches," who was the first person in this country to place a flag at the North Pole or who was the first black woman member of congress?

"The main thing is to let students around here know why we have Black History Month," Bradfield explained. "It's important for teachers to keep students aware that this exists."

Bradfield said she has little patience for those critics who argue that a 'black' history month is unnecessary since we have no 'white' history month. "This is not for blacks only," she insisted. "I find it hard at times to argue with ignorance, ignorance that comes through lack of knowledge."

In addition to the other activities, the Romulus Senior High Jazz Band will highlight contributions made by black musicians Feb. 18.

Lucas is expected to speak at 1:15 p.m. Feb. 27 in the auditorium.

Romulus counselor Linda Bradford takes time out from her busy schedule to discuss the events surrounding Black History Month with student assistant Glen McClure.

Quake rattles homes, nerves

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus residents are used to the constant 'quake' of airplanes landing and taking off but even the most seasoned airport critic knew the difference between that constant annoyance and the feeling experienced by nine communities last Friday.

So when an actual earthquake did rock the very roots of Romulus Jan. 31, it was with disbelief and a smug feeling of having known that "that wasn't no airplane" that residents accepted the explanations that followed on newscasts.

The quake, which registered 5.0 on the richter scale (according to some folks here it seemed more akin to a convoy of trucks streaming down Goddard Road, or a 10 in their estimation), shook at least nine states.

Begun in Lake Erie just 30 miles northeast of Cleveland, Ohio, the tremors reached this area at approximately 11:49 a.m..

Some residents, not recognizing that their floors were moving, expressed regret over not having had any warning before the quake.

But, according to Wayne State University geology department chairman, Robert Furlong, there is never much warning before a quake—that is unless you think predictions more than a century in advance are sufficient.

According to Furlong, it is almost impossible to predict within a period of 100 years when an actual quake will occur.

"There is no way to really tell," he said, shortly after Michigan's second quake in five years. "All you can do is determine the strain built up in the rock and then formulate some idea when an earthquake is likely to occur."

Furlong said the tremors felt by people from Ohio to Canada were the after effects of the quake begun in Lake Erie.

"Usually, the first tremor is the strongest," he commented, before knowing that Michigan's bout with mother nature would end with the mid-morning tremor. "The others are usually weaker but in all likelihood, this is all we'll feel."

An earthquake is the result of unstable rock conditions beneath the surface of the earth, he explained. Faults lying deep within the earth form from pressure exerted through the centuries. Cracks occur in the rocks, resulting in the shifting-(quaking) that is associated with their movement.

"Michigan is not very prone to earthquakes," he reassured but he quickly added, "but never say never."

In general, slight tremors such as that felt by observant Romulus residents, are "nothing to be alarmed about," because the likelihood of damage resulting from the quake are minimal.

Says who, responded Betsy Brown, administrative secretary to the mayor.

Betsy was housesitting for a neighbor when the tremors hit Romulus. And while not wanting to seem just another scared victim of nature's unknown forces, she admitted that an earthquake was not the first thing to strike her imagination.

Rather, her 'imagination' was working more along extremes.

Betsy thought first that a horror movie she had watched the night before (Halloween) was coming true and that the couch was shaking for some frightening reason.

Having convinced herself of the foolishness of that notion (and checking underneath the couch) her attention was turned to outside where she half expected to find a disabled plane on the lawn.

"I thought I was going crazy," she said. "Then I turned on the television after looking outside and not seeing anybody panicking and found out we had had an earthquake."

City hall workers that day found themselves unable to explain why papers were sliding off desks and chairs were moving across the floor.

"Something normal was definitely not going on," replied one office worker. "I knew it wasn't just a plane taking off."

At Rush Florist, Sandy Brown said that her plants began moving and the table top on which she was writing an order began sliding away.

Rush's, located near the airport on Henry Ruff Road, is used to the constant noise and shaking of planes. But this was different Brown said.

"It was definitely not the same thing," she said, thoroughly convinced of the difference first-hand. "I don't know if I'll worry a lot about earthquakes in the future but it sure gave me something to think about then."

Briefly

There will be a meeting for concerned Romulus High School parents at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 6 at the home of Rich Szente, 30190 Pennsylvania Road, between Merriman and Midlebelt.

The purpose of the meeting is to form a parents organization for the high school, similar to the one at the junior high level. This organization will compile a list of concerns of the high school parents, present them to the school board, and work with the board and school administration to find solutions to these concerns.

Wayne County Intermediate School District psychologists Monday.

"We are trying to return things to as normal a state as possible," he commented. "There is just no way to explain what has happened but the psychologists told us we should be prepared to deal with the students' reactions."

A 'grieving room', designed to channel student grief over the incident, will be opened in the high school, he said.

School officials met to discuss various options in school security in the future but Bedell said that nothing has been firmly established.

"You have to ask yourself in a situation like this if you did everything possible—could you have done anything different?" he said. "Of course, you can say people ought to be able to send their kids to school and not have (this) happen but how do you anticipate something like this?"

The incident, which occurred after school had been dismissed, was witnessed by several high school wrestlers and at least one teacher/coach.

The question of school security has been raised as a result of O'Day's death and according to one mother of high school students, many parents are worried about the safety of their children during and after school hours.

"We're angry and we're scared," Nancy Pitel said. Pitel has two children attending Romulus High School.

Pitel, who was instrumental in initiating a parent/teacher organization at the junior high level one year ago, has been receiving phone calls from residents who want to see a similar organization begun at the high school.

"We need to address the problems at the school," Pitel said. "I see a problem with the (inefficiency) in problem solving at the school."

Tighter security, check points at entrances and school identification worn by students are being suggested by Pitel and others.

"We've received some phone calls about security," Bedell said. "We had a staff member who challenged those kids while they were walking down the hallway and who was in the process of removing them from the building when the fight began. He then attempted to break up the fight. The only conclusion I have come to is that the single most responsible person for Bob's death is that young man who stabbed him."

Assistant Superintendent Terrell LeCesne said that five hall monitors are on duty every day to oversee entrances and students passing through the halls.

Another problem, involving the influx of transfer students from surrounding districts into the school district is considered by some parents to be a volatile issue, Pitel added.

"Kids are pumped into Romulus schools who are kicked out of other schools because they are problems there and they have no place else to go," Pitel said. "They come to these schools leaving behind their friends at home. They fall back on their friends there instead of forming friendships in the school. A lot of animosity arises as a result."

School officials deny these charges, saying only that there is no way to substantiate them.

Carmeleda Clark named as production manager

Carmeleda Clark has been named production manager at Associated Newspapers. Her appointment was announced by Associated Publisher and President David J. Willett this week.

Clark is a resident of Brownstown Township and has more than 15 years experience in all phases of newspaper and magazine production, along with her skills in graphic design.

The mother of three children, Terra, 8, Eric, 12, and Spencer, 14, Clark is a graduate of Fordson High School in Dearborn and attended both Henry Ford Community College and Wayne County Community College where she studied commercial arts.

In making his announcement of Clark's promotion, Willett spoke highly of both her technical skills and talent and her ability to deal with people.

"Our business here is people, as it is at any newspaper, and Carmeleda is the type of person every employer seeks. She promotes the importance we place on the people we deal with in our business and in our community."

"Her technical expertise and talent are exceptional and I am confident that under her leadership our production department will continue to grow and mature," Willett said.

Clark was named to the position of production manager at Associated and will also oversee and manage Eagle Graphics, an affiliate company which provides graphic design and typesetting services to the community.

"The people at Associated Newspapers are some of the finest I have ever worked with. I was genuinely surprised at both the professional caliber and the personal warmth of the people here."

"It is the staff of any business that make it successful and the people at Associated are really exceptional. I am confident that readers will soon begin to notice a difference in the product as we strive to improve even further on the already excellent publications," Clark commented.

Associated Newspapers publishes The Belleville Enterprise, The Romulus Roman, The Inkster Ledger Star, The Wayne Eagle, The Westland Eagle and the Canton Eagle.

O'Day suspect held his chest and went into the locker room as the youths ran from the building, according to witness statements.

Autopsy reports revealed a single stab wound to the heart as the cause of death.

Officer Eric Painter, at the high school on other business gave this account:

"I was about 150 yards away when all of the sudden a young girl came running down the hallway screaming that there had been a stabbing," Painter said. "I called for an ambulance and then ran to the locker room."

By this time a crowd had gathered and I found that the suspects had ran from the building."

Fortunate for investigators, police admit, was the fact that Painter was on the premises at the time of the incident. He was able to obtain a description of the suspects' vehicle and license plate that led, ultimately, to the apprehension of the 16-year-old less than six hours after the incident.

Police do not expect to charge the other youths in the incident.

A probable cause hearing scheduled tomorrow, similar to a preliminary examination in district court, will be conducted in the Wayne County Probate Court.

If there is determined to be cause for the charges, the youth will undergo a series of psychological testing before going to trial, police said.

O'Day, the captain of the football team and co-captain of the wrestling team, was an outgoing, friendly teenager, who, according to friends and school officials, "had everything to live for."

He was expected to attend New Mexico State University on a football scholarship in the fall.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the high school.

Scotty's will continue grocery warehouse operation

By CURT JORDET
ANP Staff Writer

Allied Supermarkets, Inc.

entered the food warehouse business in Westland last week when the conglomerate reopened a converted Pak-N-

Save warehouse under a new title. Scotty's Food Warehouse, located at the corner of Ford and Wayne, is the latest innovation by the industry giant and represents a determined attempt by the company to corner the discount food market. The Westland location joins a similar venture by the company at another location on Telegraph Road in Taylor, and represents one of the five units Allied recently acquired from Nu-Trax, the successor to Chatham.

In making the decision to enter the food warehouse business, Allied Communications Director Paul Coleman said the company looked at the attractiveness of the market. "There is a very definite need for food warehousing in certain areas," he said. "We believe that we can cater to the needs of these people, and, while they will never completely replace the regular supermarket, we hope to provide the necessary services to these people through Scotty's."

Company officials helped to ring in the new era at their corporate offices in Detroit Monday by holding a special

"Dawn Squad" promotion for employees. In a food-filled festive atmosphere, Allied senior executives greeted employees in new Scotty's Food Warehouse insignia outfits with theme music from "Rocky" playing in the background - a symbol, according to officials, of the comeback status of Allied.

The decision to open Scotty's came, according to Allied President and Chief Operating Officer Lon D. Mekanoff, after the management first looked at "a number of key factors."

"First," he said, "both the Taylor and Westland locations were highly productive as grocery warehouse stores. It is significant that food warehouse customers travel greater distances to shop at these stores than at traditional supermarkets."

"It is also not surprising that the average transaction far exceeds the norm for food retailers."

"Secondly," Mekanoff continued, "the food warehouse shopper does not overlap with the audience already established by conventional supermarkets, like our own Great Scott! chain.

"The two strategies can co-exist successfully, when executed effectively."

Joseph Moenik, senior vice president in charge of retail operations for Allied, said the marketing concept for the new stores would feature the cost savings generally associated with warehouse operations.

"Price is first and foremost to the Scotty's customer," he said, "... prices noticeably lower every day on virtually every item in the store than those found at conventional grocery stores. These savings really do add up to big dollars in a family's total grocery purchases."

To achieve those ends, Moenik said the warehouse will cut out frills such as 24-hour service, double coupons and low turnover items. "Marginal appeal items take up valuable space," he explained.

Employees of Allied Supermarkets, Inc. were surprised this week to find corporate executives wearing sweatshirts and passing out balloons as part of the "Dawn Squad" heralding the opening of two new food warehouse operations. Allied reopened former Pak-N-Save locations in both Westland and Taylor in its first venture into the warehouse marketing concept.

Romulus dye spill deemed non-toxic

City officials issued an all-clear sign after receiving information from the Environmental Protection Agency that a chemical spill Jan. 29 along Huron River Drive in Romulus was non-toxic.

"Our emergency preparedness director issued a report stating that the chemicals were not toxic," Mary Ann Banks told the city council audience during its regular meeting.

That information was based upon the findings of the EPA after an investigation.

She added that Chemical Central, located on Eureka Road, would reimburse residents who sustained damage by the blue dye, which leaked along Huron River

The substance, Neptune Blue, leaked from a 250 pound drum while being transported to the chemical company via a truck, company officials said.

Drive for ¾ mile.

The substance, Neptune Blue, leaked from a 250 pound drum while being transported to the chemical company via a truck, company officials said.

Neptune Blue is used for coloring various products such as liquid toilet bowl cleaners.

Residents in the area, who noticed a distinct blue-like substance coloring the snow along the road, notified the county in an attempt to determine the cause.

Melvin Zilka, a local resident, said he contacted the county road maintenance department and was informed that they "had no idea" what caused the "blue snow."

Will Steinke, from the county maintenance yard, said that local authorities were contacted as well as the Department of Natural Resources and the EPA.

Chemical Central general manager Bruce Machado said Friday that approximately 90 pounds of the dye, obtained from a customer of the company, caused "minor" disruption but that the dye would evaporate in the sun.

The barrel was one of five being transported. Machado said the driver was unaware that one of the drums had fallen over inside the truck and had seeped through the floor.

"It's a non-toxic substance," he said. "When the sun melts the snow, that should be the last of it. It just goes along way, that's the way dye is."

The police department issued no citations for the mishap.

IN THE LIMELIGHT RECENTLY for educational excellence are Franklin Junior High School of Westland and Woodson Elementary School of the Inkster Public School District. The two schools were featured in the Winter 1985 issue of Counterpoint, a national news magazine dedicated to promoting quality in education. The program honors schools that have accomplished a working together atmosphere for excellence in education in the classroom. At Franklin, the magazine cited faculty-developed student competency tests for social studies and science classes and the development of a low-functioning eighth-grade curriculum for history students. Other activities included enhancing computer awareness between faculty and students and encouraging staff development through conference attendance and professional training. At Woodson, the publication highlighted the establishment of a resource file of curriculum, Black history and professional development materials and the cross-referencing of reading and mathematics curriculum objectives with all standardized tests used at the school.

ALSO HONORED RECENTLY was Lizzie Saffoe of the Wayne Towers for 35 years of service as a housekeeper by the First Congregational Church of Wayne. Saffoe was pinned with a corsage and enjoyed refreshments with the congregation.

SEVERAL WESTERN WAYNE COUNTY RESIDENTS have been appointed or promoted at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti. They include Judy Hubbard of Belleville, Donald Kittle of Belleville, Nancy Ruby of Westland and Deborah Cook of Wayne.

LUCKY WINNERS in the city of Westland Department on Aging Pinochle Club this week are Allen Dennison, Kay Kelsey, Betty Skinner, Dorothy Birely, Pearl Verner and Carl Stoycheff. The club meets each Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at the Senior Friendship Center, 1119 N. Newburgh Road, Westland. The club is open to the public. Coffee and tea are served before and during play.

ONE CANTON RESIDENT was among the 572 Bradley University students to earn academic recognition by being named to the Dean's List for the fall term of 1985. Nancy J. O'Boyle received the honors.

ALSO NAMED TO DEAN'S LISTS at Central Michigan University were several area students. They include Belleville residents, Kimiko Snider, Kimberly Tragus and Tami Vicchy; and Westlanders, Carol Ignas, Andrea Dusney, Kevin Rottet and Nancy Shefferly.

RE-UNITING THIS YEAR are students from the 1976 Class of Wayne Memorial High School. The group will meet Sept. 27. Interested classmates should contact Cherie Clark at 728-6908 for more information.

ONE WESTLAND RESIDENT has pledged the Delta Zeta Sorority at Morehead State University. Teresa Lynn Hampton made the news at the Morehead, Ky., university.

OIL COMPANY SENDS UNSOLICITED "PREFERRED" CREDIT CARD.

Dear Letter Writer: I just got new credit cards from an oil company and then I got a bill. They changed my account number and now it is costing me money. It's a mess. I need a letter straightening this out.

Sincerely, LE

Dear Oil Company: I have had one of your credit cards for some time now. Several weeks ago, I received a Signature Card from you together with a pen and other information.

Approximately one week ago, under my original account number, I received an invoice with a zero balance and the words:

"Our records show you have requested that this account be closed so a Signature Credit Card Account can be opened for you."

This request was never made by me. In addition, I am in receipt of a second invoice under a new account number, indicating a $20 charge for a Signature Annual Membership Fee.

Please explain to me why I would cancel a credit card

Police have said that the Jan. 29 incident was "kid stuff with no real motive."

The suspects allegedly gained entry into the building at approximately 12:34 a.m. through a window in the central courtyard.

Officer Eric Painter said the "men made themselves at home" in the teacher's lounge, ransacked the area and ate hot-dogs heated in a microwave oven.

The suspects allegedly attempted to break into several vending machines in the lounge.

According to police, the three men "confessed" to the break-in after a school janitor alerted police that he saw them running to a local market.

According to the suspects, police said, they remained in the building approximately 20 minutes before escaping.

"They didn't actually destroy anything," Painter said. "They just messed the lounge a lot."

account with no membership fee and open another with a membership fee. What is the difference between the two accounts? I await your response.

Sincerely, LE

Dear LE:

As you requested, we have cancelled your Signature Credit Card Account. Please destroy all cards with the above number.

Your previous Credit Card account has been reopened and cards are being mailed under separate cover.

Your continued interest in our products and services is appreciated.

Sincerely, Manager Customer Accounts

COMMENT: The resolution is self-explanatory. Please note, however, the complete absence of an explanation as to what a Signature Credit Card Account is and how it differs from a regular account. This is a perfect example of the value in reading ancillary data - which appears to be uninteresting junk mail - when you receive unsolicited credit cards. It is not implied that there is not a difference in the two cards nor that the difference may not be valuable and significant, however, after all the correspondence, we still do not know what it is.

Ostrowski – Kopec hear wedding bells

Angela M. Ostrowski and Michael D. Kopec exchanged wedding vows Dec. 14 in a double-ring ceremony at the First United Methodist Church of Belleville.

Angela is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ostrowski of Tyler Road, Belleville. Her new husband is the son of Michael A. Kopec of Grand Rapids.

Angela Ostrowski-Michael Kopec

The candlelight ceremony was officiated by the Rev. George E. Spencer. The church was decorated with poinsettia plants to mark the holiday theme. Music was provided by Gwen Ashe.

The bride's gown was long sleeve with a lace collar and sheer V-cut yoke embroidered in Venice lace and pearls. Eight inches of lace draped in front of the gown and over the sleeves and down to a V-pattern in back.

The veil, which she made herself, was a two-length netting trimmed with beaded pearls and a fanned headpiece made of pearls.

The bridal bouquet was made of one dozen long-stem white roses with baby's breath and Aglaonema leaves adorning the arrangement.

Raymond Ostrowski, father of the bride, gave Angela away.

Serving as the matron of honor for the evening was Annette Rose Briggs of Ypsilanti. Dan Kopec, the groom's brother, served as the best man.

Also participating in the event was John and Jeff Kopec, Brian Shephard and Rick Briggs.

new arrivals

Ryan is a first

Susan and Michael Rakotz of Ypsilanti are the proud new parents of a baby boy, Ryan Michael. The infant made his debut at Annapolis Hospital Nov. 12 weighing in at 5 pounds, 8 1/2 ounces and measuring 20 inches.

The new boy is the new grandchild of Lois Williams, Freddie Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Rakotz of Belleville. He also is the new great-grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wood of Canton, Ann Rakotz of Romulus and Myrtle Tapp, Ryan's new great-great-grandmother.

Colemans have new baby girl

Kari Lynn Coleman became the first child of Russ and Tina Coleman of Williams Street, Wayne, at 2 p.m. Nov. 16. The infant made her debut at Annapolis Hospital weighing in at 8 pounds, 3 ounces and measuring 20 inches.

The new girl is the grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Brumlow of Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Rush Coleman, also of Wayne. She also is the new great-grandchild of Dixie Bates and Alpha Fields of Kentucky.

Patrick is number 3

Patrick James Smith became the third child of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Smith of Wixom at 6:25

a.m. Jan. 28. The new boy made his debut weighing in at 9 pounds, 7 ounces and measured 22 inches.

Patrick is the new brother of Christie, 7, and Julie, 2. He also is the new grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eggers of Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. James Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hood. Great-grandparents include Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Tibble.

The infant makes an even dozen of grandchildren for Grandma and Grandpa Eggers.

Whoever said, "A loaf of bread, a jug of wine and thou," must have just walked through a kitchen still wafting of aromas of fresh, warm, home-baked bread. Even as this is written, a feeling of warmth and wholesomeness are entering my senses as I await the golden loaves emerging from my oven.

Homebaked bread evokes happy memories of the past and excitement of the present. Bread baking is an ancient homemaking skill brought up to date by new techniques . . . retaining its basic warmth, yet restyled by modern methods. As much as Miss Rose (my home-economics teacher in high school) tried to explain kneading techniques, what was supposed to be fragrant, light, mouth-watering slices turned out to be fodder for the many birds in the school courtyard.

Before we begin the discourse on techniques and style, a silent moment of thanks to the ancient Egyptians and Chinese who discovered bread-making as we know it today back around 2800 B.C. A light bread was discovered when slaves mixed an old, fermented batch of dough with a new batch (the invention of yeast). In England, during the reign of Henry VIII, bread was rated according to the fineness of the flour. It was rumored that the sexually-active king cared more about his loaves than his loves. Enough of this folklore, on to the facts . . .

Bread is one of the four basic food groups that should be eaten daily. Enriched bread gives us carbohydrates for energy; protein for the growth and repair of body tissues; iron, which helps build rich red blood; thiamin (Vitamin B1), which is needed for appetite, digestion and nerves; riboflavin (Vitamin B2), which helps us use oxygen and promotes healthy skin; and niacin, which we need to use energy. A slice (about 1 ounce) of white enriched bread averages about 60 calories. Please note that I run into problems when baking bread not by eating one slice, but the entire loaf, while still warm, with butter and honey (oh, I'm getting goosebumps already).

To make sure that your homebaked bread is the best, the ingredients that go in it must be the best. Yeast is the leavening for breads. It makes the bread rise and makes it light in taste and texture. Yeast thrives on the sugar in the dough which in turn produces a gas which causes the bread to rise. Modern technology has given birth to active dry and rapid-rise yeast. Follow the expiration date closely for best results. Compressed cake or fresh yeast is still available but is highly perishable and should be kept in the fridge. Compressed and dry yeast can be interchanged. One package dry yeast equals one scant tablespoon from the jar or one 0.6 ounce cake.

The type and quality of the flour greatly influences the final bread. Wheat flour is used because it contains gluten. It is this gluten that, when mixed with water, forms an elastic framework that holds the gas bubbles formed by the yeast. Flours with the highest gluten make the best breads. Whole wheat flour has less gluten than white flour, therefore making a heavier bread. Rice and soy flour have no gluten and must be mixed with other flours to make yeast breads.

The usual liquids used in making bread and rolls are milk, water and, as mama calls it, "the water used in which potatoes have been cooked." The liquid should be warmed before cooking to help activate the yeast. Water makes bread crusty while milk will give them a softer crust. Liquids should be heated to the proper temperature of 105 to 115 degrees. Hotter liquids will kill the yeast.

Sugar is the food the yeast needs to make the gas which will cause the dough or batter to rise. It also adds flavor. Other sugars like molasses, brown and honey can be used.

Salt controls the action of the yeast, slowing the rising time. It also adds and brings out a special flavor. Fats are important because fat makes the bread tender (nobody ever said that about me). Fat helps the dough stretch easily, keeps them soft and gives silky crumbs.

There are different techniques that can be used when making breads, including rapidmix, conventional, cool-rise and batter. Rapidmix utilizes undissolved yeast with other dry yeast before starting to mix the dough. Rapidmix makes it easier to blend the ingredients and there is no chance of lumps. It rises faster because you add warm ingredients and the dough will probably be lighter and springier.

The conventional method makes you dissolve the yeast first in warm water. You make a sponge with the dissolved yeast, sugar and part of the flour.

Whatever your intentions or techniques, spend a few hours in a warm, cozy kitchen. If need be, take your frustrations out by slamming around some dough. You'll feel better and your family will love you for it.

Bon appetit!

RUSSIAN BLACK BREAD (makes 2 big round loaves)

- 4 cups rye flour
- 3 cups white flour
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 cups bran cereal
- 2 tbsps. crushed caraway
- 2 teaspoons instant coffee
- 2 teaspoons onion powder
- 2 pkgs. active dry yeast
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 1/4 cup dark molasses
- 1 square (1 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
- 1/2 teaspoon fennel, crushed

Combine rye and white flours. In a large bowl, combine 2/3 of flour mixture with all the dry ingredients, including the yeast. Combine water, vinegar, molasses and butter in a saucepan. Heat until warm or about 120 degrees. Gradually add to dry ingredients. A mixer can be used on medium setting, if desired. Gradually add enough flour mixture to form a soft dough. Turn onto a lightly floured board. Cover and allow to rest for 15 minutes. Place in a greased bowl, cover, let rise in a warm place until doubled, about one hour.

Punch dough down, divide in half. Shape each half into a ball and place in a greased round cakepan. Cover, let rise until doubled, about 1 hour. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes. While bread is baking, combine 1 teaspoon cornstarch with 1/2 cup cold water. Bring to a boil in a saucepan and as soon as bread is baked, brush mixture over the top. Return to the oven for 2 minutes or until glaze is set. Remove from pans to cool on a wired rack.

CHEESE BREAD (makes 2 nice loaves)

- 7-8 cups white flour
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 2 cups water
- 3 cups shredded cheese
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 2 pkgs. active dry yeast
- 2/3 cup milk
- 2 tbsps. melted butter

In a large bowl, mix three cups flour, sugar, salt and dry yeast.

Combine water and milk in a saucepan. Heat until warm (120 degrees). Gradually add to dry ingredients. Add cheese and 1/2 cup flour. Stir in enough flour to make a stiff dough. Turn onto a board and knead about 8 to 10 minutes. Place in a greased bowl, cover, let rise for 1 hour or until doubled in bulk. Punch down. Divide in half. Roll each half into a rectangle. Place in 2 greased loaf pans, cover and allow to rise for 1 hour or until doubled. Bake at 375 degrees for about 40 minutes. When finished, brush tops with melted butter. Cool on wire racks.

OLD FASHIONED POTATO BREAD (makes 2 loaves)

- 1 medium potato
- hot tap water
- 2 pkgs. active dry yeast
- 2 tbsps. melted butter
- 2 tbsps. sugar
- 1 tbsps. salt
- 1 cup warm milk
- 6-7 cups flour

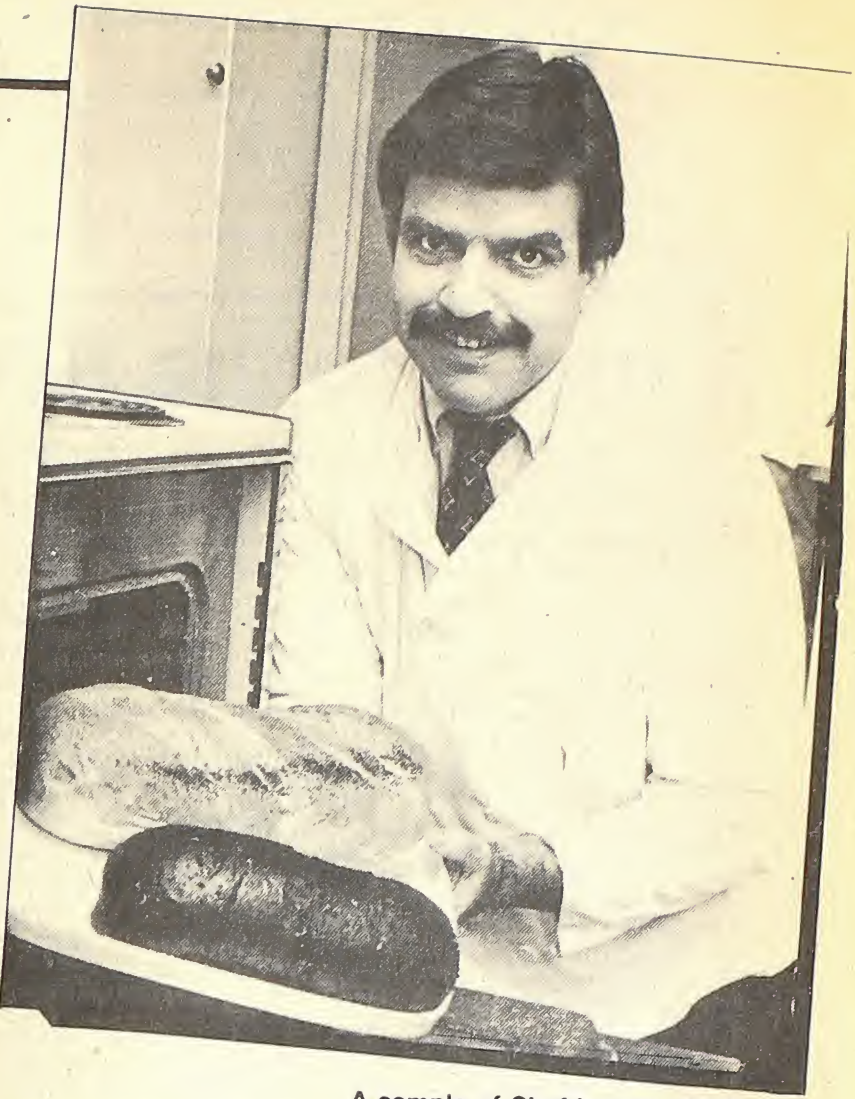

Pare and dice potato. Boil in water to cover until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain, reserve liquid. Add hot water to potato liquid to make 1 cup. Mash potato, set aside. Pour warm potato water into a large bowl. Sprinkle in yeast and stir to dissolve. Add melted butter, sugar and salt. Stir in mashed potato, warm milk and 3 cups flour. Beat until smooth. Stir in enough additional flour to make a stiff dough. Place in a greased bowl, cover and let rise until doubled, about 1 hour. Punch down, divide and place in two greased loaf pans. Cover and allow to rise until doubled. Dust loaves with flour, bake at 375 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes or until done. Remove from pans and cool on a wire rack.

TRY THIS FOOLPROOF COOL-RISE WHOLE WHEAT LOAF

- 5 1/2-6 cups white flour
- 2 cups whole wheat flour
- 3 tbsps. sugar
- 4 teaspoons salt
- 2 pkgs. active dry yeast
- 2 cups milk
- 3/4 cup warm water
- 1/2 stick (1/4 cup) melted butter

Combine flours. In a large bowl, mix 3 cups of the flour mixture with dry ingredients, including the yeast. Combine milk, water and butter in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until very warm (120 degrees). Gradually add to dry mixture. Mix well. Add enough of the remaining flour mixture to make a stiff loaf. Turn out onto a lightly-floured board and knead until smooth. cover with plastic wrap, then a towel, let rest for 20 minutes. Divide the dough in half, shape into the loaves and place in greased loaf pans. Brush with a little oil, cover with plastic wrap and place in the fridge for 2 to 24 hours or until ready to bake. When ready to bake, remove from fridge, uncover carefully, let stand at room temperature for 10 minutes. Puncture any gas bubbles that may have formed. Bake at 400 degrees for about 40 minutes.

A move to the future

Some pretty big things are happening currently in the City of Romulus, some things that suggest that the city is expanding its economic base and preparing for a future of successful business meshed with residential harmony.

The arrival of the GM Canada-Pontiac Group in the Detroit Diesel Allison plant, the expansion of Metro Airport services, and tax increment authority financing districts all speak to one issue—that of Mayor Beverly McNally's desire to see her city grow, at least as long as she holds office. If not the sole architect of these designs, she is, at the very least, an avid supporter of anything, and we stress anything, that allows her city to emerge from behind the image of cow pastures into the limelight of housing some of the biggest names in industry in the United States.

So when she recently announced that she intended to seek the governor's approval for the redistricting of Romulus' job service area to include incorporation with that of the Downriver-Monroe Service Area, she was at least consistent, if not accurate, in her assessment of the potential for success.

We agree with McNally, despite the claims of her opponents who suggest that she will be risking the fate of many residents who currently obtain help from the Wayne County Private Industry Corporation, the area within which Romulus currently lies as far as state-provided job training services.

No one knows exactly how long Romulus has been a member of the Wayne County PIC. Figures vary from 10 to 12 years. No one knows, McNally has said, because know one has heard much from the Wayne County PIC throughout the years.

All McNally knows, she told the three-member job training council during a recent meeting in Romulus, is that that organization has not kept in touch with her regarding the placement of some 15 percent unemployed residents.

"Not so," responded Barry Hawthorne, president of PIC. Naturally not so, the mayor said, now that she was attempting to leave PIC boundaries.

"The time to dazzle us with fancy footwork was during the last two and a half years," she said recently.

We think so too. Admittedly, PIC has provided residents with jobs through Republic Airlines and is currently in the process of sponsoring job opportunities at the new Days Inn in Romulus.

But the point still remains that McNally is dissatisfied with the PIC performance.

Naturally, having recently become the 17th member of the Downriver Community Conference she would look to coalescing her city with those of the downriver communities. What better method than to apply for membership to the job training service area?

Wayne County PIC reportedly stands to lose $25 million in federal aid if it loses Romulus to the downriver area.

One can easily see why the fight to maintain Romulus within PIC is so urgent.

Yet it is McNally's claim that the first concern should be that of finding jobs for the jobless that strikes a harder note.

Romulus spent, last October, $3,000 for membership to the D.C.C.—a small price to pay for a chance at greater opportunities that may lie downriver.

The current claim is that once Romulus became a member of the D.C.C., the political boundaries "automatically" changed to include Romulus in the downriver job training program.

That is an issue, in our estimation, that lies secondary to the real question: Should a city be allowed to recommend, via a petition to the governor, within which district it should lie in respect to job training opportunities?

Obviously, the mayor would not seek to align herself with an organization that she has determined not to be within the best interests of her community. She has already voiced disapproval with the current job training options and the unemployment figure for her city suggests concurrence.

Why then, when the city has already an alliance with one political entity which now lies so near within the reach of Romulus residents, would anyone, for reasons other than economic, resent the departure of the city from another entity?

We hope that the governor, who has more resources at his disposal to come to an accurate conclusion about Romulus' past and future job training options, finds that McNally's assessment is correct, that she can be more adequately served by the downriver area, and proceeds to give the nod for the redistricting of job service areas.

Challenger of Challenger

A moment of joy and celebration turned to tragedy in what seemed like the blink of an eye last week as the space shuttle Challenger blasted off.

As representative of a group of a cross section of America as we could imagine was strapped to giant fuel tanks of virtually pure energy. Seven jubilant astronauts were killed in an accident that we are just now beginning to understand. They were vaporized in full view of all America. It was a sad, shocking catastrophe that left all witnesses open-mouthed in disbelief. Yet when we consider that all of our lives and safety hinge on the judgement and expertise of the lowest bidder on every construction project, I begin to wonder.

It is, after all, the engineers of the land that ultimately determine whether the bridges our automobiles traverse will collapse, whether such buildings as the Renaissance Center will survive an earthquake, whether the people mover will fall after six months of active service or whether the shuttle will disintegrate under the stress of launch.

To be sure, the best engineering can result in a flawed final product if shortcuts are taken in construction, if quality control procedures are not adhered to, or if basic material used in assembly are of inferior quality. Yet, the engineers of the world are the invisible army that determines, to a significant degree, the future of mankind. They design our buildings, roads, automobiles, aircraft, water purification systems, power supply and, in fact, most every element of our safety. Yet the general public hears little of them and knows almost nothing of the control exerted over their training, performance or judgement.

Much has been said and written about contracts going to the lowest bidders, however, business is about making a profit after all. What is it that allows one bidder or contractor to under bid others when the details of the construction are clearly defined in the specifications for the job? It could be a better engineering design. It could be a willingness to work on a smaller profit margin, or it could be people willing to take a risk with our safety by "economizing" on material quantity or quality.

A friend of mine was installing a new printing press on a concrete floor that should have easily held the weight. It didn't. Upon closer examination, far less concrete was found to have been used in the pouring of the floor when it was originally installed. Often, lives are the price paid for such cheating.

We have all, no doubt, seen movies of "The Towering Inferno" variety depicting the consequences of poorly engineered or constructed buildings. We read in the newspapers of the flaws discovered in the support structures of the people mover and occasionally we read of the collapse of a walkway or a building, killing innocent people, or as in the case of the shuttle, the explosion destroying the lives and dreams of seven brilliant young Americans.

Perhaps it would be best to leave this entire line of thought here, in a sort of philosophical generality. Yet, I am haunted by the memory of a discussion I had many years ago with my now deceased brother-in-law. I recall how he walked away from a job as a designer he had taken with a company because they wanted drawings completed for a job by deadline or they would be financially penalized.

Recall may pave the path to better township government

It would appear that finally, someone in Canton Township has stepped up to the challenge of unacceptable local government.

Last week, it was reported that a former township treasurer, James Donahue, has begun a recall petition drive against present Township Clerk Linda Chuhran. This recall follows controversy which began almost the day Chuhran took her oath of office.

We support Donahue and laud his efforts to take constructive action with regard to his local officials and government. Many, many people have been involved with Chuhran and her antics during her short tenure...many have criticized her privately while publicly carrying on as if it were all business as usual in township hall.

Business as usual it isn't...and hasn't been. At least one department head will admit that he left Canton primarily due to Chuhran and the difficulties he perceived in dealing with her. He since has been courted by at least two municipalities and is considered one of the top administrators in his field.

"But the bottom line is rather simplistic. The voters in Canton Township placed the mantle of public service on the shoulders of Linda Chuhran. Only they can remove it."

Last month, we're told, Chuhran subjected another department leader in Canton to public humiliation and embarrassment at a board meeting. This in front of an audience of citizens and residents and in full view of the other elected officials.

We're also told that department heads have indicated that they, too, will be seeking other employment and leaving Canton should this conduct be tolerated and others subjected to the treatment inflicted upon a fellow administrator.

Canton Township has some of the most qualified, talented department heads and administrators in the area. Take a look at their credentials and at the careful scrutiny they undergo when attempting to obtain employment at the township. The hiring process in Canton is one of the most thorough and complete anywhere. Candidates for administrative jobs are carefully examined and interviewed. Contracts are evaluated on both sides and only the very best are hired. To obtain a post in Canton Township is a mark of a professional...or has been.

Chuhran follows the term of Maria Sterlini, which was marked with controversy and infamy. Voters and officials in the township tolerated Sterlini and her actions with a "grin and bear it" attitude and by their silence may have appeared to condone many of the tactics she employed.

It has, to date, been nearly the same with Chuhran. While tempers are somewhat shorter with regard to her attempts to change the long-established structure of her office and township procedures, no real, public action has been taken by the other members of the board, save a public censure at a board meeting.

Now Donahue, himself a Life in a mobile home park should be free from traffic problems, but this is not necessarily true. There can be problems, but in some cases police cannot do much about them.

A bill approved by the House and sent to the Senate would help to correct this.

Streets in a mobile home park are almost always private roads. Police can issue tickets for a number of violations on private roads, including leaving the scene of an accident, drunk driving, reckless driving, careless driving and drag racing.

However, under present law, they cannot issue citations for certain things that would be violations on public roads. These include speeding, running stop signs, not having a proper driver's license, drinking while driving and failure to have registration papers or proof of insurance.

Of these, speeding is probably the most serious safety threat in a mobile home park, particularly considering the fact that they may be children playing there.

Drivers who speed through mobile home parks have been a public safety problem for a long time. While police officers can stop the speeders, without being able to enforce speeding limits they cannot effectively deter speeders, and this dangerous practice continues to be a problem.

The bill approved by the House would set a legally enforceable 15 miles-per-hour speed limit in mobile home parks, which would mean that police could issue tickets to drivers exceeding that limit.

Motorists who drive too fast in mobile home parks are a serious threat both to themselves and to park residents. Often the speeders are not residents of the parks and so do not have the interest that residents might have to drive safely in their own community.

Some of the newer mobile home parks are quite large, comparable to small villages, which means that speeding is of concern to considerable numbers of people.

Speeding is a particular problem in some of the older parks, where the mobile homes

Motorists who drive too fast in mobile home parks are a serious threat both to themselves and to park residents. Often the speeders are not residents of the parks and so do not have the interest that residents might have to drive safely in their own community.

are closer together, with smaller lots, narrower roads and fewer play areas so that children are more likely to play on or near the streets. The threat to their safety caused by speeders is especially serious.

The bill would not necessarily result in an added burden to local police departments since police officers generally patrol mobile home parks, as well as answer calls from park residents. However, the bill would give police a more effective tool to use to stop speeding in the parks.

When my brother-in-law explained to a supervisor that he had discovered a flaw in the design and the product was, in fact, unsafe, he was told to proceed. "I'm sure they'll catch it, and besides, it's their problem," he was told. He refused to play the game...but how many do?

We might all recall the movie about the nuclear power plant where welds were not x-rayed for flaws in order to save on time and money. Perhaps our space program is now on hold because of a flaw in the engineering previously undetected. Perhaps it was due to faulty materials, perhaps it was caused by laxity in quality control.

We may survive this latest bout with catastrophe, the space program will, I trust, go on and be better and safer for it, but we should all look closer to home at the safety standards employed in the elements that touch our lives each day.

There will sadly always be Titanics, Hindenburgs...and Challengers. Let us not foolishly gamble with our future, and safety by cutting corners that cost us the lives of family, friends and brilliant minds.

And that is the real challenge of the Challenger.

See you next week.

wall street the week ahead

DEAR INVESTOR: The financial markets continue to be optimistic that the Federal Reserve Board will move to reduce interest rates. The ration of money supply (M-1) to total monetary base is dropping toward its trend line. This would allow the Fed to accelerate money supply (M-1).

Producers have moved back into financial markets for short-term inventory financing. This may send a signal that demand is building for funds, but this trend will reverse by the second quarter of 1986. The markets for interest-sensitive bonds are in a cautious mood.

Any movement will be held in narrow ranges. Last week, rates moved to the lower end of that range and this week they may be mixed to higher. This week, gold and silver will be under selling pressure.

For this week, the short-term traders will start the session on the sell side. At the current market level, some programmed selling can be expected. However, any major decline may also initiate buying programs. Intermediate- and long-term traders will also be early sellers. However, they will not participate in any bargain hunting.

For this week, I see the market opening mixed to down, as selling programs shift equities form strong holders to retail buyers. The market is optimistic that GM, IBM, and Merck will lead the market to higher ground.

To their surprise, these stocks may be getting weak, with GM leading the market lower. Any breakdown in GM could influence our total economic outlook. Any substantial decline in "blue chip issues" will bring in late buyers and bargain hunters.

However, the secondary issues are under selling pressure. These issues generally are the refuge for money managers that anticipate a continuing upward price movement in the stock market.

OPINION FOR FEB. 2, 1986

NOTE: Worries are mounting at banks with big energy loans; the U.S. Budget Office estimates the fiscal budget deficit of about $182 billion; durable goods surged 4.2 percent mainly through a huge increase in aircraft orders; non-farm productivity fell at a 1.8 percent annual rate in the fourth quarter, the sharpest drop in four years; leading indicators rose a strong .9 percent in December with the largest trade deficit in history for one month of $17.37 billion.

Opinions are solely that of the author, and not that of First of Michigan Corporation. Send investment questions to First of Michigan, P.O. Recall former Canton treasurer, has appeared on the scene, recall petitions in hand, to hopefully prompt some kind of action. He is a brave man indeed, as Chuhran and her omnipresent attorney, armed to the teeth with threats of legal redress for just about any action, have apparently cowed the rest of township government.

Chuhran has sued Supervisor Jim Poole and the entire board...and the cost of defending that suit is yet to be determined. This from a woman who proports to want to do nothing but best serve the voters and save the township funds. She has threatened suit or had her attorney send letters to numerous people or businesses in attempts to discourage any type of public criticism or adverse publicity surrounding her methods. Perhaps the reluctance of some members of the board to tackle Chuhran head on in a conflict can be understood in light of her penchant for the courtroom.

But the bottom line is rather simplistic. The voters in Canton township placed the mantle of pulic service on the shoulders of Linda Chuhran. Only they can remove it.

Donahue has provided a means of curing a rather complex and ugly problem. His solution may be the means of beginning to cure the failing reputation of Canton Township as a well-managed, desirable place to work and to live. His recall suggestion, while radical, may be the first balm for the wounds inflicted by less than adequate elected officials.

But the bottom line is rather simplistic. The voters in Canton Township placed the mantle of public service on the shoulders of Linda Chuhran. Only they can remove it.

School board blasted

To The Editor:

I was totally shocked to read the story about the dog that was killed by the electric sidewalk. That could have happened to any of the students walking on the sidewalk that day.

That is a good example of the way the school board wastefully spends the taxpayers' money. Someone on the board must have a brother-in-law in the cement and electrical business.

What is the matter with the city inspectors - don't they know water and electricity don't mix?

Disaster prompts comments

To The Editor:

Like millions of Americans nationwide, I watched in horror as the space shuttle Challenger exploded after take-off. I would like to take this opportunity to voice a few opinions.

First, I have grown up with the various American space programs: Mercury, Gemini, Apollo, Apollo-Soyuz, Skylab and the shuttle. By no means do I claim to be an expert. However, in all due modesty I must say that I am very well read on the history of manned space flight.

In all the years that NASA has evolved, the primary concern of the agency was and is safety. In the past, if there was any known reason to postpone or cancel a mission, there was no hesitation to do so. Therefore, don't speculate as to whether there was unnecessary risk involved. Everyone should understand that as far as NASA was concerned, everything was 100 percent safe for the crew. The crew knew of the risks involved. But life is a constant risk and as President Reagan noted, "The future is for the brave."

The question also arises in a tragedy like this, "Is manned space flight necessary?" I say yes it is, for so many reasons: federal defense, medical research, scientific research, etc. This great country didn't get to this point of technology by backing up or standing still. A great many everyday items have been advanced by the space exploration that we have been involved in that the question should not even be asked. But the privilege of asking is one of the reasons that we venture into space.

Secondly, a word of thanks to the broadcast media. As the tragedy unfolded, I watched, listened and mourned with and for the families of the seven shuttle astronauts. But at the same time a couple of thoughts went through my mind. The media coverage renewed my sense of patriotism. Some may find it strange that in a time of national disaster, thoughts would make a 90 degree turn. But the American media didn't try to cover up the story like some Eastern Bloc countries. They reported the facts as they knew them.

Also, how ironic that almost 19 years to the day that astronauts Grissom, White and Chaffee became the first American casualties when they died in a fire on the pad, the first Americans to die in flight occurred. I also found it strange that the Mercury program began with seven astronauts and the first in-flight tragedy saw seven crew members die.

Finally, I thought that since these brave explorers would be remembered forever, it was a typical cross section of Americana. Their hometowns spanned from coast to coast. The crew included a black man with a doctorate, a Jewish woman with a doctorate, the first Japanese-American in space and the first civilian in space. She was Christa McAuliffe, a high school teacher from New Hampshire.

I know that citizens are mourning the loss of these great Americans. Let us continue, however, their aspirations as we strive to make strides forward.

Dec. 7, 1941 - Nov. 22, 1963 - Jan. 29, 1986 - to paraphrase Franklin D. Roosevelt, dates that will live in infamy.

Board gets blamed for sidewalk

To The Editor:

You won't have to raise school taxes in Wayne. The problem is eliminated with "electrifying" sidewalks around the schools. This might, however, cause some unemployment among school officials. No kids - no schools - no tax - no highly-paid school officials.

WARNING: Walking on any sidewalk in the City of Wayne may be hazardous to your health. Especially if your weight is less than the 75-pound dog that was electrocuted.

Unbeaten Wayne buries Fordson

Outscoring their visitors 18-8 in the second quarter, undefeated Wayne Memorial buried Fordson 70-46 to extend its Wolverine "A" Conference basketball winning streak to eight games.

Coach Chuck Henry and the Zebras have a 12-game winning streak as they enter the week of action. They were scheduled to play Ann Arbor Huron last night and have a rematch with a pesky and capable Belleville quintet at Belleville Friday night.

The conference champs barely got by Belleville the first time around, winning by four and Henry cautions that the second encounter will also "be tough."

"It's going to be a good game," Henry said. "They match up with us quickness-wise and have shown they can play with us."

Belleville coach Leon Birdyshaw concurs with Henry's assessment of the game. "Anytime you lose a game by four, you feel that you can play with that team. We think we can beat them."

Fordson made a game of it with the champs for the first eight minutes, the Tractors trailing by only four (16-12) as Wayne Memorial extended its monopoly of the prestigious Western Wayne Swimming & Diving Championships last week as Coach Jim McPartlin's swimmers retained the crown for the fifth successive year.

Getting a "triple victory" out of Kevin Martin, the Zebras piled up 277 team points to outdistance rival, Livonia Franklin, by 60 points to win the title for another year. The Patriots finished with 217, followed by Wyandotte (196), Westland John Glenn (190), Woodhaven (105), Allen Park (87), Thurston (68), and Dearborn Heights Robichaud (25).

"I felt that our seniors turned in exceptional performances,"

McPartlin said, "and this was also a good experience for our younger swimmers." McPartlin also noted that "although the weather was horrendous (roads were ice covered), there was a good turnout."

Martin teamed with David Graham, Mike Barnes and John Sharnetsky in the 200-yard medley relay for Wayne's first gold medal. The winning foursome was clocked in 1:46.3. Martin also struck gold in the 200-yard freestyle with a 1:54.7 effort, then picked up his third victory when he touched in at 4:57.4 to win the 500-yard freestyle.

Woodhaven's Jeff Rodden duplicated Martin's double-winning performances in the individual events. Rodden was clocked in 55.0 in winning the 100-yard butterfly. He led the field for the 100-yard backstroke, finishing in 57.5.

Wayne had two other event winners: Sharnetsky held a comfortable margin of victory over Wyandotte's George Petrowski in the 50-yard freestyle while Kirk Tilley also defeated Petrowski for the gold in the 100-yard freestyle.

Westland John Glenn chalked up a gold when John Jensen beat Allen Park's Tim Rahtz to the wall in the 200-yard individual medley

Young Romulus athlete slain

The tragic death of Bob O'Day, Romulus High's co-captain in football and wrestling, led to the cancellation this week of all athletic activity at the high school.

O'Day, an 18-year-old senior, was stabbed to death Friday afternoon in a hallway at the school when he came to the aid of one of his teammates who had an altercation earlier in the afternoon.

Police have arrested an 16-year-old Inkster juvenile in connection with the slaying. They are seeking a waiver to try the youth as an adult.

O'Day was a member of the Romulus wrestling and football teams, earning All-Area recognition in both sports. He was to attend New Mexico State University on a football scholarship this fall.

The scheduled wrestling matches last week were cancelled, according to school officials. Romulus High head coach Wayne Schimming was not available for comment.

Romulus's basketball game Friday night with Taylor Center also was cancelled.

Earlier in the week, Romulus's Terry Mills showed Belleville why he is considered one of the finest all-around high school players in the country this year. Mills, a 6-9 senior, hit 18 of his 25 shots and didn't miss in the first period to lead the Eagles to a 91-60 victory over the Tigers. Mills accounted for 41 of his team's 91 points.

"He was just fantastic out there," said Belleville coach Leon Birdyshaw. "He was awesome."

The game, for all purposes, was over in the first quarter when Romulus built up a 30-8 advantage and never looked back.

Mills' outstanding performance overshadowed that of Belleville's Millard Thomas who also had a career high 32 points, 15 of those coming in the fourth period.

Pontiac ends Inkster win streak at 10

With two of their starters and two other key players sidelined due to ineligibility, Inkster found the going rough at Pontiac Northern last week and suffered their first setback of the basketball season, 76-64.

The loss snapped Coach George Thompson and the Vikings' win streak at 10. Inkster rebounded Friday night with a 85-64 victory over River Rouge to remain atop of the Suburban Athletic Conference standings with an untarnished 5-0 record.

Thompson said he doesn't know how long his players will have to sit out the season because of their grades.

"The kids know they have to get passing grades to play," he added. "That's the rule. We must all abide by it."

Although they gave Northern a battle, Inkster's make-shift line-up of players moved from reserve to varsity status at the last minute couldn't stop the experienced Pontiac quintet.

"I am proud of the kids," Thompson said of those who filled in for those sidelined. "James Poole and Michael Lee played outstanding. But we had only eight players and fatigue also took its toll."

Rockets on 7-game win streak

Glenn tightens grip on 1st

By KEITH DeMOLAY
ANP Special Writer

In mid-January, shortly after the Rockets of Westland John Glenn were defeated by Plymouth Canton, they were saddled with a 2-4 record, 2-2 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

But, only two-and-a-half weeks later, the Rockets are riding high with a seven-game winning streak following last Friday evening's 65-59 victory over a scrappy Farmington team.

The victory pushed the Rockets' over-all record to 9-4, 8-2 in the WLAA's Lakes Division. The latter record puts them first in the division; two games ahead of Plymouth Salem.

"We had good contributions from everyone," said Coach Gordie Davis, enjoying the fruits of his labor. "We had to pick up the slack for Andy's absence (Andy Grazulis was out with the flu). It was a good road win, especially with Farmington's outside shooting."

The Rockets had a busy week and a strange one, at that. They didn't play Tuesday because the extreme cold had closed schools so they took on Livonia Franklin the next night. Led by the rebounding and 15 points apiece from Tony Boles and Gerry Diete-Spiff, Glenn defeated the Patriots, 64-45. Steve Hawley added 14 points.

Now the Rockets were ready for Farmington, a team they had defeated by 20 earlier in the year. But the team, assistant coach Daran Armstrong, and Davis knew it'd be different this time on the Falcons' home court.

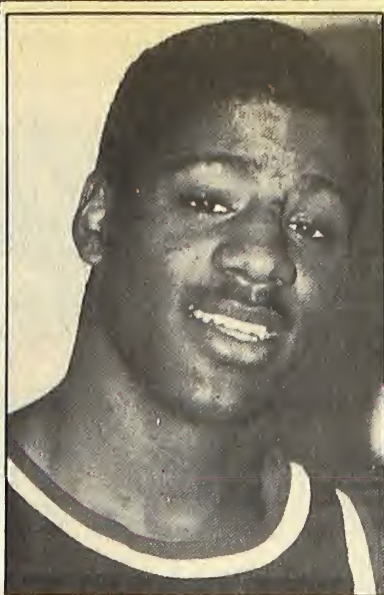

It certainly was different. The Falcons hung on to the Westlanders like glue and led for most of the quarter, thanks to All-State lineman Craig Petersmark's basket at the 4:40 mark (10-7) and Bruce Kratt's shot from the bleachers. But by the end of the quarter, Glenn had reclaimed the lead on a Hawley basket at the 1:12 mark (17-16) and a pair of Ken Gietzen free throws two seconds later that gave the Rockets a 19-16 lead.

Then 6-6 senior forward Diete-Spiff took control on the boards and triggered Glenn's fast break. Diete-Spiff helped Glenn to a 27-18 edge by the 5:29 mark of the second period. Diete-Spiff had plenty of help from his friends ---Gietzen had two points and Hawley added four in the run.

But the Falcons refused to fold. Led by guard Tony Racka, who scored 18 points on the night, and Kyle Mutz, Farmington closed the gap to 33-32 at the half that had their noisy fans cheering wildly.

The Rockets came out in the third quarter determined to put the Falcons away early, and nearly did. They got balanced scoring from the entire line-up, led by Boles's five points. The 6-2, 194-forward senior's two consecutive baskets early in the period gave the Rockets a 37-34 lead. From there, Glenn expanded it to an 11-point advantage, 50-39, at the 35 seconds' mark when Diete-Spiff tipped in a missed shot.

Zerik Wynn

Wynn with the Saints

Inkster's Zerik Wynn is contributing to the success of North Country Community College Saints basketball team this season.

Wynn, son of Marie and Emmette Wynn, is a sophomore who has been averaging 18 points a game for the first half as a starter for the Saints. The 6-4 cager is at NCAA, a two-year unit of the State University of New York located in the Adirondack Mountain-Olympic Region of New York.

The Saints, under first year coach Pat Hogan, have chalked up a 9-6 record midway through the season.

Canton cagers even record with Western victory

Solid defense and balanced scoring are paying off these days for Plymouth Canton and its first year coach Tom Niemi.

The Chiefs jumped on Walled Lake Western 17-7 in the first period and coasted to a 65-41 victory over their Western Lakes Association basketball rivals on Friday after jolting natural rival, Plymouth Salem, 42-40 last Tuesday before a huge home crowd.

The two key victories lifted Canton's record to .500 (5-5) in the league for the first time this season. They are 6-7 on the year.

"We forced them into 21 turnovers," said Niemi who is in his first year as head coach at Canton after serving as cage strategist for nearly a decade at Belleville High with stops at Bentley High as well. "Our defense has greatly improved and we outrebounded them (33-27) although we don't match up with either team in size."

With Joe Mies connecting on 10 of his team's 17 points in the first period, Canton managed to work to a 10-point, 17-7, lead after the first period. They increased the margin to 30-16 during the next eight minutes as Rog Trice joined in the scoring.

Mies, who tossed in eight field goals and made two of three at the free throw line, led all scorers with 18 points while Trice, a soph, also finished in double figures with 14.

In a thriller, Canton hung on to edge Salem, 42-40, in a cross-town rivalry. Low-scoring all the way, Canton finished atop of a 10-7 first period scoring ratio and increased the advantage to 21-12 at the midway point.

But Salem's Mike Hall came out with guns aroaring in the third period and sank eight of his 19 to knot the score for three-quarters at 30-all. Salem moved ahead by five at one point in the stretch, but a late rallied masterminded by Trice and Tyrone Reeves and a key free throw by Mies pulled the Chiefs out of danger.

Westlander Hall of Fame candidate

George Gillies of Westland is one of four inductees in the 1986 Metro Detroit American Softball Association's Hall of Fame.

Gillies, who is the Umpire in Chief of Metro Detroit's ASA, will join Mickey Axelson, former slow-pitch player with Little Caesar's; W. E. Landis, former ASA Commissioner and second president of the National ASA, and Rocco Palmeri, former fast pitch player from Detroit at the Hall of Fame banquet for the formal installation ceremonies.

The banquet is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Thurs., Feb. 20 at the Polish Century Club, 1581 E. Outer Drive, Detroit.

Gillies, who played baseball and football at Plymouth High School, turned to umpiring in the late '50s.

Lynch is double winner

Belleville dunks Edsel Ford

Sparked by Matt Stoelton and Greg Lynch's outstanding performances, Belleville turned back Dearborn Edsel Ford, 96-75, in an out-of-conference dual swim meet last week.

Lynch, who was instrumental in helping the Tigers win the opening 200-yard medley relay, also captured a first place in the 50-yard freestyle and touched in first for the 100-yard breaststroke.

In the 200-medley, Lynch teamed with Stoelton, Martin Duda and Eric Snider for the victory. The winning time was posted as 1:46.31.

Lynch returned to the pool for the 50-yard freestyle and led teammates Duda and Jeff Miller to the wire. Lynch won the event with a 22.96, while Duda and Miller finished third and fifth, respectively. He won the breaststroke in 1:04.93 with mate Mike Ackron winding up in the third place slot.

Belleville also claimed a first place in the 200-yard individual medley thanks to Ackron who churned a 2:12.18 for the victory. Stoelton and Eric Lawson finished third and fourth respectively in that event.

The Tigers swept second through fourth places on the diving boards as Raul Estrada was runner-up with 206 points. Belleville was third with Troy Pierce (165) and fourth with Gordon Clearwood (159) points.

In the meantime, Belleville got a second, fourth and fifth in the 100-yard butterfly with David Traskos (1:00.12) second, followed by Duda (1:02.33) and Joe Boniorno (1:11.59). Snider's 52.03 was the second best time for the 100-yard freestyle while Jeff Miller and John Kapitan were fourth and fifth, respectively.

Over in the 500-yard freestyle, Jeff Thompson set the pace and won with a 5:24.19 and teammate Lawson was second in 5:24.60. The Tigers also finished 1-3 for the 100-yard backstroke as Stoelton led the pack (59.67) and Traskos finished third.

Belleville was second in the final relay, the 400-yard freestyle, with a line-up of Miller, Kapitan, Thompson and Lawson who were clocked in 3:49.58

Glenn gymnasts qualify for 'A' regional finals

With their fourth 118 point score of the 1986 campaign, Westland John Glenn has managed to qualify its team for the Class A state regional tournament.

The Westlanders scored 118.65 in defeating Ypsilanti, which had 96.25 to claim a victory and also qualify for state. "If a team manages to post four 118 team total points, that is the criteria for qualifying for the regionals," explained Jean Hawley, Glenn coach. Glenn will travel to Troy next month for the regionals.

Glenn's Debbie Tomasko had an excellent day against Ypsi as she posted three victories. She won the floor exercises with an 8.35 (out of a possible 10), then earned a victory on the bars (7.5) and also was first in the vault with an 8.4.

The Rockets also finished runner-up with Angie Temelko, in the vault (7.65), who was second in the floor exercises (8.0), while Debbie also was runner-up on the beam with a 7.5.

Glenn's record dipped to 6-2 when the Rockets dropped a 128.85 to 121.05 decision to state power, North Farmington. Tomasko set a school record when she struck gold on the beam with an 8.6. She also established a new high for all-around with 33.4. Other top-notch performances were turned in by Laurie Spiers, Susie Gibson, Marcy Diepveen and Marie Wells.

adopt a pet

It takes no more than one visit to the Westland shelter of the Michigan Humane Society for any interested family to give a home to one of their loveable pets. This week we feature Nosey, a six-month-old off-white kitten with a yearning for adventure. Nosey is house-broken and good with other animals. To inquire about Nosey, or any of the other animals at the shelter, call 721-7300.

dan's dogs

by dan a morris

Being present during the birth of a litter of puppies is, indeed, exciting. We are as excited as we feel the mother should be, tired or not.

If humans were not around to adopt and raise a pup or puppies, and to see to their well-being, Mother Nature would take care of her own territory and the puppies would be tended to by the mother of the litter. Any puppy found deficient or not healthy would be ignored or suffocated by the mother. She would weed out the good from the bad - the strongest to survive.

This may seem cruel but human intervention often mistakes an ailing pup for a healthy one whereas the pup's biological mother instinctively recognizes which of her brood should be euthanized. With that human interference, we sometimes discover, years later, a mental or physical impairment that the dog's own mother recognized right away. We could have been spared the heart-break of putting a dog to sleep if we had let the mother select the survivors.

A lioness, like the mother dog, begins educating her offspring soon after birth. Nudging them to eat encourages them to realize they must work for food. She allows snarling and wrestling by her brood until they come to realize the strongest or most aggressive will become the leader. When the noise becomes too much to listen to she swipes at them firmly - showing who's boss and at the same time implanting in their minds the fact that there will always be someone stronger around. This trains them to be alert. They are taught at a very early age that the world is a tough place and they must be prepared to handle it.

Those puppies fortunate enough to be adopted by a family interested in doing the best for it are lucky because the pup will receive love, medical attention and training. All this rounds out what the mother began at birth.

Those dogs adopted by someone uneducated in animal care are less fortunate. Sometimes the dog turns into a biter from being teased or wrestled with. Sometimes the dog becomes insecure and angry from being mistreated or isolated and it, too, becomes a biter. Instead of taking the blame for how the dog turns out, humans end up blaming the breed of dog.

Remember, in order to control her litter, the mother would take her pups by the neck and shake them into submission. But in order for our pet to behave around us, it must be educated to adjust to human lifestyle. It must be trained to understand that self-control and proper conduct is the only way to survive in man's environment since any other behavior automatically classifies it as unruly. As usual - whose fault is that?

Spotlight on 'Madwoman of Chaillot'

By RUSS OGDEN
ANP Drama Critic

More than 30 amateur thespians searched frantically with their director on opening night last Friday but failed to find the dramatic and comedic essence of Jean Giraudoux's "The Madwoman of Chaillot," an overly-long treatise extremely well written but perhaps dated with the passage of time.

"The Madwoman of Chaillot" is informed by her compatriots that big business is out to destroy the world and that somebody in Paris must do something about it. In Giraudoux's story this is accomplished at an open cafe - Place de l'Alma with a cafe terrace at the Chez Francis - which in this production sees many people wandering on and off stage, theoretically reflecting society in both her positive and negative aspects.

Several businessmen arrive at the cafe and talk of the wealth available "under the city of Paris" in the form of undeveloped oil fields and the bonanza available in the Alma section of Paris known as Chaillot. As they selfishly scheme over the cafe table with Paris' non-cultural society interfering by their presence from time to time, The Madwoman of Chaillot appears in her unique attire and takes over the scene in all of her glory.

Act II, at least on the John Glenn stage in Westland, sees Madwoman Countess Aurelia solving of society's problems.

"Gertrude Crippen as The Madwoman has a voice that is commanding and an absolute joy."

Business and its continual development and foraging of the earth for ill-gained benefits to individual mankind are taken care of in short order by the countess.

The Spotlight Players' potential brilliance does not come through in this production and they are like the New England Patriots inasmuch as they may not know what hit them in their losing to this demanding two-act treatise. Whether Robert Weibel or the cast knew exactly where they were going on this two-act trip is questionable from the audience.

Weibel has used more members in this production than in the original Broadway opening on Dec. 28, 1948. With huge numbers of people on stage, you may assure yourself of a larger audience but here we have an awkwardness on behalf of the actors that detracts from the effectiveness of the play. The results whether positive or negative of this production ride heavily on the play's quarterback, Countess Aurelia, The Madwoman of Chaillot, who is not a Chicago Bear's McMahon!

Gertrude Crippen as The Madwoman has a voice that is commanding and an absolute joy. In her prime it would have been a privilege to just listen to her discourse on any topic to hear that lovely set of vocal chords vibrate in beautiful harmony. Crippen stumbled in her role with forgotten lines and poor pacing of the role from time to time, but her valiant effort to live up to The Madwoman is applauded. She is well-worth the price of admission.

Tobin Alan Hissong as The Ragpicker also seemed to approach the demands of his role, and he captured, more than anyone else, the basic idea even though his performance had its dramatic ups and downs

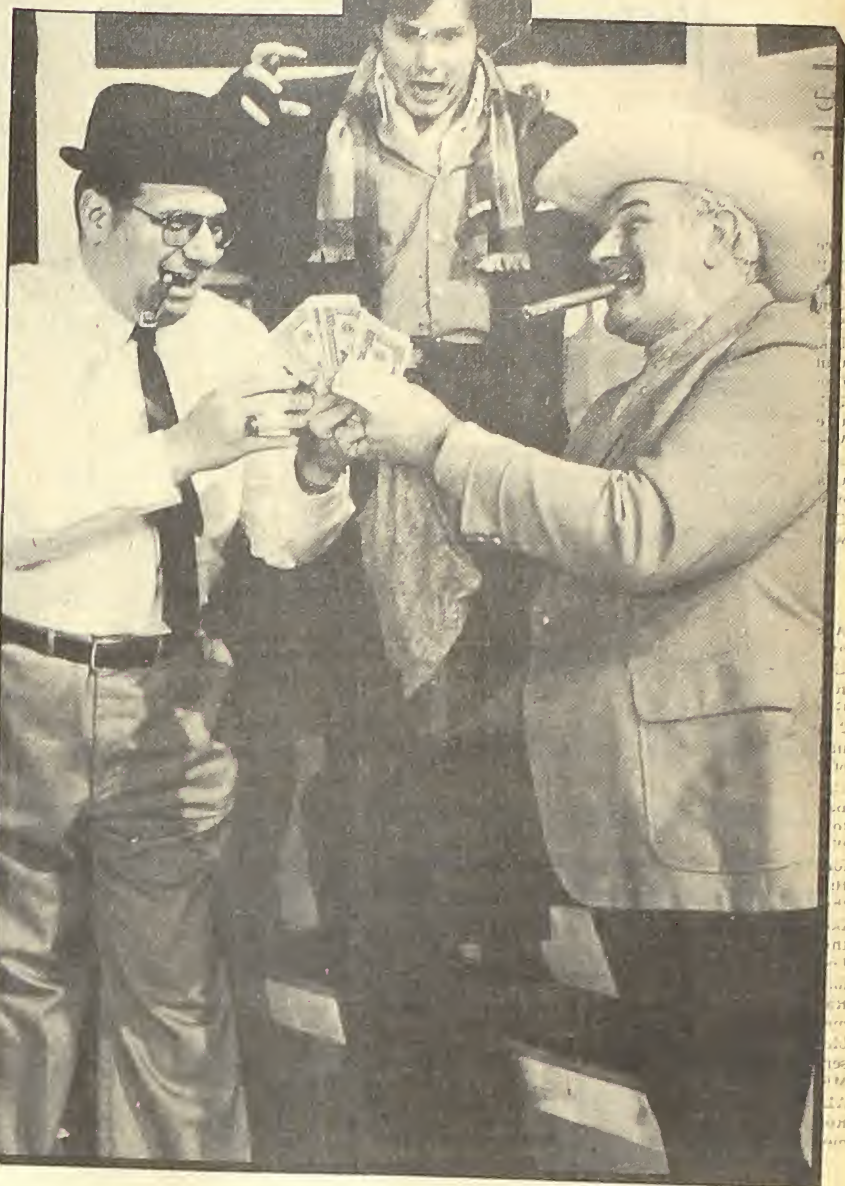

... nevertheless, his was the best of the thespianic lot.

Otherwise we had cardboard players appearing and disappearing on two sets - the outdoor cafe and The Madwoman's cellar flat - which were admirably done along with some most attractive costumes on the participants.

Again, community theatre is a wonderful happening and is always applauded both in good and bad presentations. The involvement of so many citizens in a good cause is indeed a time of celebration. While this first-night production was rather uneven, it is a good bet by next weekend it will be more than solid entertainment.

Brooks Atkinson in the New York Times in his critical review of "The Madwoman of Chaillot" made this statement: "Probably 'The Madwoman of Chaillot' ought to be rehearsed by a company of well-blended geniuses for a year before the curtain is raised for the public." If Atkinson made this comment about professionals on stage in 1948, perhaps our Spotlight Players did not do that badly either.

Madwoman curtain time is 8 p.m. Feb. 7 and 8 at John Glenn auditorium. Tickets are priced at $4.50 and are available at the door.

The "Madwoman" has a great deal to contend with as the "President" portrayed by Joel Fabian, left, and the "Prospector," Riley Tadlock of Canton, right, conspire to sell off her town - but the day may be saved with the help of the village "Ragpicker" portrayed by Tobin Hissong, also of Canton. The Spotlight Players are offering the "Madwoman of Chaillot" at 8 p.m. Feb. 7 and 8 at the John Glenn High School Auditorium.

A super comic resource book

THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF SUPERHEROES
By Jeff Rovin
Facts on File Publications
443 p.

Remember when comic books were simply thought of as "trash" reading for kids (only!) and the most likely place to find a stack of Superman, Archie and Batman was in the bathroom?

Well, to put it bluntly kids, as Dylan said, "The times, they are a' changin'." These past few years in particular have brought the comic book industry acclaim, growth and, yes, respectability.

The number of comic "direct only" stores has gone from something like 25,000 to 900,000 groups across the nation. The circulation area of Associated Newspapers now has roughly eight stores vying for the comic buyer's money, each offering discounts and other deals in order to draw in that "first time" customer who will become a regular.

A Friday evening trip to, say, Westland's Readers' Exchange, located at Cherry Hill and Merriman, will, for instance, show a jostling crowd of upper- to middle-class men and women, many in suits on their way home from the office. The point is this: comic books are now sold to a more mature audience than they were 10 years past, and the titles show this trend.

While there are naturally a lot of books on the shelves that are (or should be) aimed at the 6- to 12-year-olds, many, often by "alternative" or independent publishers, go for the older, more mature crowd, with books like Journey and the highly-acclaimed Love & Rockets; parodies such as Megaton Man, written and drawn by the area's own Don Simpson. And lots more.

A few other surprises may also confront the curious who haven't looked at a comic since they were 10 cents each and tended to fall apart before you got home. The norm for comics of today range from 60 to 75 cents, with some high-quality books marketed on heavy stock for as much as $1.75.

On the other hand, of course, is the risk; a book done in black and white (as many of the alternatives are) and costing $1 may end up being worth (and sellable) for as much as $125 in a matter of months, as happened recently with the unlikely "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles," which began as a parody and has evolved into a million seller through direct shops only.

All of which serves as an introduction to Jeff Rovin's book, The Encyclopedia of Superheroes. After all, it should be obvious that it isn't the preteens that are aimed at in a book which costs close to $30.

As with most books of this kind, one can always find imperfections; who was left out and so on. But as massive an undertaking as this shows that the publishing world is aware of older readers, be they hippies weaned on The Fabulous Furry Freak Brothers or the Yuppie buying five copies of the latest issue of X-Men.

Illustrated lavishly throughout, both in color and black-and-white, Rovin has clearly cut out too big a task for himself; he throws in legendary characters such as Robin Hood and Samson alongside such dopey DC Comics' characters as Matter-Eater Lad (a fun guy if there ever was one), Brother Power the Geek and, from Marvel, Forbush Man.

Those looking for data on older, more esoteric characters from the 1940s and '50s will love the book, and for them it is essential.

While it is useful for the average reader who may get some enjoyment out of such a book but ... $30. Rest easy. The part of the book I'll find myself turning to time after time are the quotes. After all of the data (including first appearances, costume descriptions, powers, etc.) we are provided with a quote that has been known to cause grown men to laugh loudly inside otherwise quiet bookstores. For instance:

The Green Arrow: "Yuck, I feel like 200 pounds of boiled inner tube."

Matter-Eater Lad: "Biting this piece of steel hurt!"

Sabrina (of Archie fame): "Yipes My zap canceled his kazong!"

Deadman: "Who said that? There's nobody here but Dora the baby elephant!"

The Thing: "It's clobberin' time!"

Overall, I think Rovin has done a fine job, especially considering he probably had little cooperation from Marvel or DC Comics (the "big two"), both of whom are doing "inhouse" guides such as this. But, if you're the type who likes to know that The Clock made his first appearance in Funny Papers #6 in 1936 and the history of Moon-Girl, this is a book you shouldn't be without, offering the interested hobbist the best thing to a true encyclopedia on comics done so far.

One more thing. Remember those comics you bought for 5, 10 and 25 cents? Well, many of those are worth (in mint condition) hundreds and even thousands of dollars. Have you checked your attic out lately?

(The Encyclopedia of Superheroes is available at the Waldenbooks store at Westland Mall where many best-sellers are discounted up to 30 percent.)
